

Handelsbanken Euro Obligation (A1 EUR)

The fund invests in interest-bearing financial instruments, denominated in EUR, that are issued or guaranteed by a state, municipality or by a governmental or municipal authority or by some intergovernmental agency in which one or several states are members, as well as in covered bonds. The fund's assets may also be invested in interest-bearing financial instruments with high credit worthiness, so-called Investment Grade. The average residual duration of the fund's investments is between 2 and 10 years. The investment focus of the fund does not permit investments in corporate credits, which means that by definition controversial sectors are excluded. For further information, please refer to the fund's prospectus. The fund is reported as an Article 6 fund pursuant to EU regulation 2019/2088 on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector (SFDR).

Portfolio manager comments — Q2 2025

The second quarter of 2025 began with increased tensions in financial markets. The US introduction of broad import tariffs—referred to as “Liberation Day” on April 2—triggered sharp global market reactions, including falling government bond yields, widening credit spreads, and broad equity market declines. Geopolitical tensions also intensified, primarily due to the escalation of the conflict between Israel and Iran.

The sharp rise in European interest rates in March, following Germany's stimulus package, was largely reversed, and yields were generally lower at the end of the quarter than at the beginning.

The European Central Bank cut rates twice during the quarter, from 2,50% to 2,00%, in line with expectations. However, the tone at the most recent policy meeting was slightly more hawkish, and the market now expects only one additional cut.

The fund has maintained a neutral duration position since April, following the significant drop in yields. Global debt levels, Germany's stimulus package, and the US budget proposal have shifted market focus to the yield curve, with longer maturities now requiring higher compensation. As a result, yield curves have steepened more than expected, which benefited the fund's large position for steeper curves.

However, the underweight in Italian 10-year bonds detracted from performance, as market sentiment proved stronger than expected despite global concerns about tariffs and growth. The overweight in French bonds also had a negative impact due to continued political uncertainty, while the overweight in Spanish bonds contributed positively to returns.
