Fund performance was positive during Q1 2024 and the fund rose just over 13% in SEK. Performance during the last month of the quarter in particular was strong.

The primary contributors to fund returns included companies such as TSMC, the new holding in Meta as well as Microsoft, Novo Nordisk and ASML.

On the negative side were significant positions in HDFC Bank, Teleperformance and Edenred. All of the equities were affected by negative news flow during the period but should improve going forward. Holdings in UnitedHealth Group, ADP and S&P Global also lagged the upward trend in the market during the quarter.

We divested the entire holding in AIA due to the weakening conditions in the Chinese economy and in the financial market in particular. Holdings in Nike, which is facing difficulties within an increasing number of areas, as well as Church & Dwight, were also sold. Both AIA and Nike posted weak performance during the period.

The fund's investment in Apple underperformed significantly relative to other large technology company, which is unusual for Apple. In particular for a new Iphone cycle, the launch of Iphone 16, which is expected to cement the company's focus regarding AI for mobile devices. The holding lowers the risk in the fund and increases its defensive characteristics. The fund is positioned with relatively few factor exposures: limited over- and underweights in regions or sectors.
