Fund performance was favorable during Q1 2024 and the fund rose just over 9% in SEK. The upturns in the equity market were primarily driven by an increased confidence in a soft landing of the economy that is supported by expected rate cuts.

The strongest contributors to fund returns were Astra Zeneca, Volvo and SEB, where Astra Zeneca rebounded after declining on the reporting date in the wake of higher than expected costs. Volvo posted strength in line with the rest of the manufacturing sector and SEB announced a share buyback program in conjunction with its quarterly report, which was received positively by the market.

Nibe and Sweco, which were weighed down by reports that were weaker than expected, had the most negative impact on returns. Nibe's sales were negatively affected by the persistently high inventories of heating pumps in the distribution chain that were accumulated during a period of high expectations for further strong growth and the need to ensure delivery capacity. Declining gas prices in Europe and lower subsidies have dampened incentives for installing heating pumps. The inventory situation should be rebalanced during the end of the year and there is a further need for energy transition that is assisted by effective climate solutions over the long term. Sweco was weighed down by struggles in the UK market where projects within transport are being cancelled and the company is now adjusting after the overcapacity that arose.

The fund increased the holdings in Nolato, Astra Zeneca and Nibe during the quarter as well as took profits in Indutrade after strong stock performance. We decreased the holdings in SHB, Volvo and Atlas Copco during the quarter.

In the upcoming reporting period we will continue to focus on investee companies that have sustainable business models and competitive offers with sustainable growth even in a weaker economy.
