Portfolio manager comments — Q2 2024

Fund performance was positive during the quarter and the fund rose almost 4% in SEK. The Taiwanese semiconductor company TSMC, the Chinese internet company Tencent, the Indian bank HDFC Bank and the South African pharmacy chain Clicks were the strongest contributors to returns.

The semiconductor sector had a downturn in 2023 but has rebounded sharply in 2024. One of the primary drivers behind this positive performance is major investments, most notably within artificial intelligence (AI). Tencent has delivered strong earnings results in recent quarters due to a higher market share in the Chinese advertising market and good cost management.

The Indonesian bank Bank Rakyat, the Brazilian stock exchange operator B3 and the Chinese sunglass manufacturer Xinyi Solar had the most negative impact on performance during the period. Bank Rakyat has a history of operating the micro loan business profitably but reported higher than expected credit costs and is currently in a phase in which the quality of micro assets has declined.

During the quarter the fund sold its holdings in Peruvian Intercorp as well as added new holdings in Turkish Akbank and Macrotech.
